

Presidential Ponderings

August 2019

Dear all

As you read this, I will be at the other end of the world, as far away as I could be. Nothing personal you understand! I am enjoying the 24-hour daylight in Iceland along with its magnificent scenery, cashless and plasticless society. I will be back soon, however.

Dennis is also on a long trip away after his magnificent efforts with the technology and the move.

Congratulations to everyone for a stellar effort in moving and settling into our new home. Yes, I recognise some teething problems, but nothing is insurmountable. Thank you everyone.

I want to thank our tutors for getting organised so fast. And to the volunteers and committee...what would we do without you.

At last we can say that spring is on the horizon and thank goodness for that. I hope you have all coped and have been free of too many debilitating germs. I caught that wretched cold, but thanks to the flu vaccination, got over it quickly. You can't keep a good woman down for long.

As we progress into our first term here at KP, I would welcome any comments regarding future offerings, course structures etc. I always look to new ideas to increase our membership and keep our current ones interested. Please feel free to let us know your thoughts.

So, until our paths cross again, best wishes and stay well and safe.

Andrea McCall
